

Competitive Polo

and Casual Elegance

Polo—the game, the horsemanship, and the community—has been a part of Memphis since 1954, when it was played at the Memphis Hunt and Polo Club.

Now, our home is a beautiful, 200-acre farm just outside the city in Rossville, Tenn., that features some of the country's best polo fields.

From April to October, Memphis polo enthusiasts gather to practice and learn the game, play fast-paced, competitive matches with other clubs, and socialize through refined charity events or casual, field-side asados, traditional Argentine barbecues.

Memphis Polo welcomes everyone—from the expert player to the beginner to the spectator—to join us this season.

Lively Matches

with New Friends

Twice a week, the Memphis Polo Club gathers for casual practice games that introduce newcomers to the love of the sport—and our group's close-knit camaraderie.

Players use the non-competitive matches to train new horses—or themselves—in a friendly, low-pressure environment. Beginners become familiar with the game, the rules, the speed, and their horses at their own pace.

The matches also give us a chance to become more familiar with each other. After practice, we gather around a cooler, discuss the game, relax, and take in the sunset over the scenic countryside.

Spirited Competition and Strong Relationships

Weekend tournaments at home or on the road showcase the Memphis Polo Club at its best—as aggressive players and gracious hosts.

The Memphis Polo Club often hosts neighboring clubs at our beautiful home facility for two days of high-speed, fierce competition. By evening, tournaments are perfect for socializing. The Memphis Polo Club hosts Argentine barbecues—asados—at our tournaments. When we travel to neighboring clubs, they're similarly gracious hosts.

These events bring neighboring polo communities together as a close, tight-knit group. Weekend polo trips are small vacations for friends looking to engage in some spirited competition and get away for a while.

Play on the Field

and Learn the Game

Becoming a Memphis Polo player is much easier and more financially feasible than you might think.

Everyone—from experienced players to beginners—is welcome. Beginners don't have to buy horses or equipment—just schedule lessons with our instructors and we'll take care of the rest.

If you decide that polo is for you, our experts can guide you, helping you avoid the common new-player pitfalls. Learn horsemanship, game strategy, hitting techniques, and the famous polo camaraderie.

Through taking advantage of our lessons program and our practices, you can be competing on the tournament field in no time.

Play on the Sidelines

and Make an Impression

Through sponsorships and special events, you can enjoy the thrill of polo without ever mounting a horse.

The Memphis Polo Club's scenic countryside offers a perfect venue for any event.

Entertain clients, spice up the company picnic, or organize a field-side event for your friends and family. Afternoon matches and Argentine barbecues are a relaxing, casual getaway. Evening matches provide an elegant venue for your cocktail party.

The Memphis Polo Club team will work with you to create a unique, memorable experience. Use the Memphis Polo Club to get your message out to our community by sponsoring an event, the team, or advertising at our facility.
